

We the people of the United States in order to form a more perfect union establish justice

In this just country of ours, the United States of America we the people embrace this justice the justice of getting to pick cotton all day and all night the justice of not being allowed to learn to read or write

we the people embrace this justice
the justice of not feeling equal because of our nationality the justice of getting our hair cut and robbed of our identities
we the people embrace this justice the justice of not having a say in what is right for our country the justice of being beaten, thrown around like a rag doll

We the people of the United States
in order to form a more perfect union insure domestic tranquility

In this tranquil country of ours,
the United States of America
we the people seize such tranquility through the whip scars engraved in our skin from our owners through the marriages we aren't granted that are not even considered real

we the people seize such tranquility from the prison like conditions we wait in to be considered equal from the stares we receive because of the color of our skin
we the people seize such tranquility by the sexism we face from men whose job we can do better by the disrespect we are shown for being uneducated by the men who won't allow us the right to an education

We the people of the United States, living in this god forsaken land absolutely adore these conditions in which we live.

We the people of the United States
enjoy having to wake up every day not knowing if we will be murdered as punishment for not doing a good enough job

We the people of the United States
enjoy having to wake up every day longing for freedom as it was promised to us before migrating into this country

We the people of the United States
enjoy having to wake up every day not knowing whether or not we will survive the next war of bolidgerance from the man who is supposed to care take us

We the people of the United States cherish this life we live of justice, tranquility and equality.
Do you?

By Isa & Jaden